DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 6-8 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim cannot depend from another multiple dependent claim (i.e. claims 6-8 all depend from multiple dependent claim 3). See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claims 6-8 have not been further treated on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.

Art Unit: 1772

2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
 3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
 4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
5. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fishel et al (5914173).

Fishel et al teaches the invention as claimed except for a clear teaching of the indicia being on both sides of the liner. See figures 1 and 2 along with column 2, lines 9-65. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to Fishel et al reference to include indicia on both sides of the liner in order to provide identification on both sides thereof motivated by the fact that the Abstract, at line 3, teaches the indicia on at least one surface and also because since it is taught to be on at least one side it would be obvious to apply to the other side for the same reasons its on one side. With regards to claims 2-5, it would be obvious to include different markings, different information and/or different languages on each side in order to convey whatever information is required for a particular application.

6. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fishel et al in view of Nakanose (4062918).

Fishel et al teaches the invention as claimed except for a clear teaching of the indicia being on both sides of the liner. See figures 1 and 2 along with column 2, lines 9-65.

Nakonse teaches it is known to emboss both sides of a plastic sheet with indicia in order to supply both surfaces of the sheet with what ever information is needed for a particular application. Refer to column 3, lines 19-33.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to Fishel et al to emboss both sides of the film, as is taught by Nakanose in order to provide identification on both sides thereof. With regards to claims 2-5, it would be obvious to include different markings, different information and/or different languages on each side in order to convey what ever information is required for a particular application.
